Our goal

“We want to make sustainable agriculture the norm. Our insights empower commodity producers and buyers to combat deforestation, protect biodiversity, and decrease carbon losses.” Niels Wielaard, founder & CEO.

Our goal is to make sustainable agriculture production mainstream by helping our clients achieve climate positive sourcing and investment decisions. We do this by supporting businesses to be traceable and verified sustainable for E(SG) compliance on Deforestation and Carbon.

About us

Satelligence is the market leader in remote sensing technology for sustainable sourcing with the mission to halt deforestation.

We provide global corporations, such as Mondelez, Bunge, Cargill, Unilever, Rabobank, and many more, with critical sustainability insights empowering them to minimize their global environmental footprint. By combining data from ESA and NASA satellites with AI-powered predictive modeling and in-depth local expertise, we help our clients get more grip on their supply chains, which are often complex and scattered.

Satelligence' services allow its clients to track their progress against climate objectives, protecting them from risks like deforestation and inspiring them to operate more sustainably. The services offer value to every party directly or indirectly involved in agriculture, e.g., farmers, traders, manufacturers, agribusinesses, and financial institutions with agricultural investments.

We were founded in 2016 and currently employ +40 people, working out of offices in Utrecht, Washington DC, and several locations in Asia-Pacific, Africa, and South America. Satelligence has been growing fast and works tirelessly to expand its client base and extend its services. We are now looking for a talented Graphic Designer with a passion for sustainability to join our marketing team.
